

Zu der nach dem 1. methodistischen Bischof in Amerika benannte Theologischen Hochschule und Universität, im ländlichen Kentucky gelegen:

Asbury, in Wilmore, a city of 4,300 about 16 miles south of Lexington, is an interdenominational Christian college whose roots are in the Wesleyan tradition of the Methodist church. (John and Charles Wesley, brothers, were 18th century revivalists.) ...

Asbury in 1970 certainly was conducive to a revival. The college had a Wesleyan tradition and a history of unexpected revivals. Students were not strangers to the idea. A number had, in fact, been praying for an outbreak.

Beginnt mit Nachrichtenreporter, dann spricht der damalige Rektor, Dr. Kinlaw, sehr detailliert über die Entstehung und die Auswirkungen der 1970er Asbury-Erweckung.

“The 1970 revival at Asbury College will go down in history as one of the greatest supernatural events of the last half of the 20th century. Millions of people across the United States and the world were impacted by it. This simple video does a wonderful job of conveying something of the outpouring’s heart and power. Everyone we have ever shown this to have an immediate impartation of faith for revival and the power of prayer. What God did once at this campus, we believe He will do again on every campus where a group of students will open their hearts to Him.”

Der junge Prediger Chris Galonos erklärt, was Erweckung (Revival) bedeutet und geht dann besonders auf die 1970er Asbury Erweckung ein.
